Battle of Ballots Proceeds Without Bloodshed: Oklahoma Quiet As Citizens Cast Votes

Common Sense Prevails and All Sides Agree to Orderly Carrying Out of Official Rulings.

A BIG VOTE IS OUT

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 2.—Oklahoma laid away its six-shooter today and called for its ballot.

Polling places opened generally throughout the state at 7:00 a. m. for voters to cast their vote in the special election, which was banned by Governor J. C. Walton.

Armed citizens actually slept on the floor in many cities to insure the security of the election supplies.

Reports from throughout the state were that the balloting started in an orderly manner in nearly all counties. In only a few counties where Governor Walton's political supporters were in charge of the election machinery, the polling places failed to open.

Walton, who opposed the election because the people are voting on a proposed law providing that the legislature may meet for the purpose of impeaching the governor, without being summoned by the executive, continued efforts throughout the night to prevent the balloting.

He issued a statement, addressed to the "People of Oklahoma," banning the "pretended election" and asking the people to preserve peace and good order.

He issued a call for an election on November 6 at which a measure, allowing the legislature to convene itself could be submitted to the people.

If the Oklahoma people want to amend the constitution so that the Ku Klux Klan legislators can impeach thereby removing all restraint on the Klan, I don't want to see them do it.

The governor said he would not use military force to prevent the election. He said he mobilized his 22,000 state militia, 15,000 voluntary "minute men" and the national guard of the state to suppress lawlessness in connection with the election.

Military law restraint enforced in many sections of the state as a result of the Governor's fight on the Ku Klux Klan was slightly relaxed for the election. The Governor said military law could be clamped down again after the voting.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 2.—A deputy sheriff accidentally shot himself in the chest today while the county court house here shortly after the polls opened today. The shooting occurred when the deputy sheriff dropped his gun and the bullet entered the other's shoulder. The wounded man was taken to the hospital. He was not seriously hurt.

Address—Okla., Oct. 2.—Voting in the state, the stronghold of supporters of Governor J. C. Walton, was peaceful today.

"There has been no violence and there is no danger of any," said Sheriff E. T. London, who succeeded the late "Buck" Garrett to the job of law enforcement officer for the county.

"I have 200 deputies on duty in all parts of the county, including Healdton and Wilson, and there is no sign of any trouble."

Oklahoma City, Oct. 2.—Oklahoma county, strongly against Walton in the last election, showed signs of polling the largest vote in its history. In counties where the Governor's special agents and military authorities probed lawlessness, placed by the executive at the door of the Ku Klux Klan, balloting was heavy. Other sections reported little interest. Eighty per cent normal ballot for the entire state was forecast.

From the executive's mansion it was announced that the Governor would ignore the result of today's balloting.

"The pretended election is illegal and I will refuse to accept its result," the Governor said.

"I am willing to allow the issue to come before the people in a fair and

GIANT DIRIGIBLE ZR-1 REACHES ST. LOUIS THREE HOURS AHEAD OF SCHEDULE; NOW ENROUTE BACK TO LAKEHURST HANGAR

Will Pass Thru Central Part of this State About Midnight But Will Not Likely Be Visible.

SPEED IS 55 MILES

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 2.—The giant naval airship, ZR-1, after a visit of a few hours here, left at 10:10 a. m. today on the return trip to Lakehurst, N. J.

The big navy dirigible reached the St. Louis flying field, six miles from here, three hours ahead of schedule and for three hours the big silver envelope loafed through the air above the downtown district.

At 6:30 the ship returned to the field where an army detachment pulled it to its moorings. The ZR-1 was 24 hours in the air, having left Lakehurst at 6:30 yesterday. The ship maintained a speed throughout of more than 55 miles an hour.

The airship was to stay at the St. Louis field an hour for refueling, and then to lead the 42 men of the crew. Due to the postponement of the national races to the last three days of this week, however, all board officials are making an attempt to have the ZR-1 stay over night.

It was 13 hours and 50 minutes after the big ship passed Clearfield until it landed in St. Louis and if it returns via Clearfield, which it is not likely to do as it was off its course when it visited here yesterday, it will pass over here about midnight tonight, having left St. Louis at 10 o'clock morning. The ship was at least 50 miles out of the path laid out for it when it got here yesterday. It was supposed to follow the main line of the Pennsylvania from Altoona to Pittsburgh. Perhaps it was following the Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway, as everybody else will be doing shortly.

VISITOR FROM OREGON

Frank Malloy, of Portland, Oregon, is a guest at the home of his brother, J. M. Malloy on South Fourth street, at present. This is Mr. Malloy's first visit east in nearly sixteen years and he is much impressed with Pennsylvania's advancement during this time.

John Walton and H. V. Neubauer, Phillipsburg; Allen Straw, Irona; Harry Levineck, Tyler; J. D. Mome Ebersburg; W. W. Hegarty, J. H. Kester and A. F. Snyder, Coalport, were Clearfield visitors yesterday.

Called "Mystery" House

Here is the summer home of the late Mrs. Charles Webb, over whose death an official investigation may take place. The home is at Fairfield, Conn. She had planned just before she became ill to live in it permanently.

FELL FROM EARN ROOF

Frank Ruffner, of Clearfield street, received quite severe injuries in a fall from the roof of the barn on the rear of the lot of E. V. Brown. Mr. Ruffner had purchased the barn and was engaged last evening in tearing it down, when he slipped and fell from the roof to the ground. He was taken to his home where he is confined to his bed, the extent of his injuries not yet being determined.

WILKES-BARRE FINANCIAL INSTITUTION DECLARES A 100 PER CENT DIVIDEND

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 2.—The Miner's Bank, largest financial institution in this section of the state, will pay a 100 per cent dividend, 50 per cent in cash and 50 per cent in stock, E. M. Kirby, president of the bank and vice president of F. W. Woolworth Company, announced today.

At the same time the capital stock will be increased from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000, partly by the dividend and partly by sale of stock. The large dividend will be paid out of the bank's surplus and will still leave $750,000 in the surplus, Kirby said.

COALPORT MAN KILLED

A coal miner near his home at Coalport at noon Sunday, Oct. 1, was killed by a falling rock while working in the Altoona branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The victim was James J. Wilson, 38 years old, who was working in the coal mine near his home at Coalport. He was killed by a falling rock while working in the Altoona branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad. WILL CELEBRATE COLOMBUS DAY

Thomas Spingola, of Daisy street, today from Punxsutawney will be attending a meeting of representatives of twenty lodges of the Order of the Sons of Italy, from the counties of Clearfield, Jefferson and Elk counties, which was held at Punxsutawney for the purpose of arranging for the celebration of Columbus Day.

The celebration of Columbus Day this year will be held at Punxsutawney. It will begin on Thursday, October 11, and continue for three days. It was decided to hold next year's celebration in Clearfield.

St. Marys Firm Sues For Return Of Liquors Seized Two Years Ago

Pittsburgh, Oct. 2.—A suit was granted on United States Marshal James C. McGowan by Judge R. M. Gibson in United States district court this morning to return to St. Marys, Pa., the liquors seized from the plant of the Standard Oil Company, which was seized from the plant of the Standard Oil Company, which was seized from the plant of the Standard Oil Company.

BOW! WOW! WOW! YELLOW PURPS TO GATHER WEDNESDAY

Yellow Dogs and curs of varying degrees of malignancy will gather at the Clearfield opera house tomorrow evening for the purpose of holding one of the greatest howl purrs or howl was known to Yellow Dogdom in this entire region.

At this gathering much business of importance will be transacted, not least important of which is the initiation into the mysteries of dogdom of a class of about one hundred mance, fleabitten hys.

Chug Cur Norris, generalissimo of all the Yellow Dogs in this neck of woods, will preside at the initiation exercises and will have every purr eating right out of his hand before hostilities end.

In addition to much other business of importance full and complete reports of the Labor Day dogmas at Curwensville will be given and plans for improving Irwin Park in the future outlined.

Yellow Dogs will be present from Altoona, Clearfield, Boardman, Carnegie, Grampian, New Millport, Glen Ridge, O'Shanter and many other towns in this region, and a real time is assured all who attend.

Titusville Policeman Slays Business Man Who Paid Wife Court

Titusville, Pa., Oct. 2.—Policeman Charles Weatherbee was locked in jail here today, charged with the slaying of Edward Sterling, local business man.

Sterling was shot early this morning by Weatherbee as the latter's wife was seen entering Sterling's automobile, according to the police. Sterling died without regaining consciousness.

Several months ago Weatherbee applied for a divorce, having Sterling as co-respondent, but he later withdrew the suit and the couple had been living together since. About that time Weatherbee arrested Sterling on a charge of bootlegging but Sterling was never brought to trial.

After shooting Sterling, Weatherbee called his superior officer on the telephone and said: "Look me up. I just shot the man who wrecked my home."

BELIEVE GOVERNOR PINCHOT HAS TOO MANY IRONS IN FIRE

Harrisburg, Oct. 2.—Governor Pinchot is beginning to feel the pressure of too much executive responsibility and since the closing days of the legislature has the Governor been confronted with as many matters of moment to determine within a short space of time.

The Governor is trying to give his undivided attention to the coal problem and ways and means of keeping down the price. He has also to devote time to the preparation of three addresses to be made this week in Reading, Philadelphia and Erie as part of his tour of the state. In addition to these responsibilities, there were conferences to be held with members of his official family, seeking solutions of difficulties arising under the complex reorganization program.

There are some here who feel the Governor at the present time has too many "irons in the fire" to do justice to any of them.

EXAMINATION OF CANDIDATES FOR APPOINTMENT TO WEST POINT

Congressman William I. Swoope has been requested by the War Department to nominate a candidate for appointment to the United States Military Academy at West Point, and two alternates, in time to take the examination at the Academy on the first Tuesday in March, 1924. A large number of applications for the appointment are on file at the War Department. Mr. Swoope has requested the United States Committee to hold an examination of the candidates at Clearfield, Pa., and they have agreed Saturday, October 20, 1923, at nine o'clock in the morning at the Clearfield High School as the time and place for holding the examination. The examination will be on the same subject on which the successful candidates will be examined when they apply for admission to the Academy. All candidates must be actual residents of the District, not under 17 nor over 22 years on the date of admission to the Academy, not less than five feet four inches in height and of good moral character. Full particulars are given in this examination. Candidates are asked to write to Mr. Swoope at the War Department, Washington, D. C., and a letter from him will admit the candidate to the examination.

LAKES TO THE SEA HIGHWAY TO GAIN BY PUBLICITY

The regular meeting of the Commercial Club was held in the Hotel Jordan last evening and was one of interest, being one of open discussion on many subjects.

The Progress cannot resist the temptation to assert here its belief that this little club of one hundred live wires is worth a half hundred Chambers of Commerce.

Here in one meeting we see that the club has a "bait" that is, was represented at the Clarion meeting called to plan for the proper advertising of the Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway.

With a view to looking after what is good for the whole people, particularly the young people of the city, the club assigns a member to the library project.

It maintained a service booth at the County Fair which was a boon to hundreds of people.

And, best of all, it has an assurance from the B. & P. that a big "wag" signal is to be erected at the Nichols street crossing.

This is just a sample of the interesting meetings held every two weeks and by their activity the Commercial Club truly merit the appellation of business men in Clearfield and every citizen as well.

The report of the representatives, Dr. J. Paul Frantz and L. A. McDowell, who went to the meeting at the Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway was interesting as they reported the plans under way for financing the advertising campaign to set forth the advantages of the Highway and the numerous benefits from a scenic viewpoint.

A vote of thanks was given to Pop Wilson and his family for their good work at the Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway project.

The club where the meeting was held was a distinct advantage and help to people attending the Fair.

The proposed public library came in for a lengthy discussion and a petition was circulated among the members, asking council to levy a tax of one mill for the purpose of starting and maintaining a public library in the city. A. M. P. was the committee for the purpose of starting the library project and to report the club at these meetings.

Secretary Brodie reported that he had received word from the B. & P. Railway to the effect that a big "wag" signal, such as has been erected at Market street, would be shortly installed at the Nichols street crossing.

DuBois Rotary Club Pays Beautiful Tribute To Edwin Willis Gray

Solemnly, mournfully, out of respect for the memory of the late Edwin W. Gray, the regular meeting of the DuBois Rotary Club at the Hotel Logan Friday evening was devoted to a memorial for the deceased.

The simplest program, confined to an eulogy and the adoption of a suitable resolution, marked the meeting. Dr. S. M. Free delivered the eulogy, saying in part:

Mr. President and fellow members I am asked to do something which is well high impossible—to talk about our beloved member Edwin Willis Gray, or as we called him "Ed". He is as we say—dead, but this is not true.

Those we call dear are just away, have left us for a little day. Have wandered to another land. Which we know not nor understand. And must be most wondrous fair. Because our loved ones linger there. But soon—ah, soon will come the day. When all of us will go away. To join the ones whom we call dead. Who've wandered onward just ahead. Then shall we know—then shall we see.

The glorious land of yet to be. Then we shall meet those gone before. And live with them forevermore.

A. F. KEIM IS HERE TO ASSIST FARM AGENT WORK OUT PROGRAM

So great have become the activities of the Clearfield Farm Bureau with its regular agricultural and farm extension work, live stock raising, poultry and fruit demonstration, potato club, etc., that the local County Agent, Mr. Sterrett, in spite of his best endeavors, has been unable to thoroughly cover the work as he believes it should be done.

The response to the suggestions and recommendations made by Mr. Sterrett has been so prompt and so much work has been done in the county, that he has been unable to carry on what is undoubtedly one of the most important undertakings ever attempted in Clearfield County, the service of Mr. A. F. Keim, who has been secured and Mr. Keim will act as assistant to Mr. Sterrett in the many branches of work undertaken by the Farm Bureau.

Mr. Keim is a graduate of State College and also has the benefit of a year post graduate course at the University of Minnesota. He has also done some Farm Bureau work in his home county, Mr. Keim is a native of Rowell, Somerset County, fully informed as to the needs of this section of Pennsylvania and every way equipped to assist Mr. Sterrett in the management of the Clearfield County Farm Bureau.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

The "Pennsylvania News," a 4-page newspaper published in the interest of the Pennsylvania railroad, gives the following interesting historical sketch of the road:

The main route between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh in the years from 1833 to 1859 was over the old Portage railroad. The road was the means of overcoming the steep slopes of the Allegheny mountains, the most significant barrier of travel in those early days. There were five incline planes on each side of the mountains and horizontal planes on the intervals between the slopes. The cars were raised and lowered by means of hoists and transported over the planes by small engines. The rails were made at the Ebbon Vail iron works in Wales and imported to this country at a great expense. The ties were made of stone. The total cost of the old Portage Railroad was $1,634,357.00. In the year 1838 fifty thousand tons of freight and 20,000 passengers were transported over this system. Among the many notable passengers who traveled over this road was Charles Dickens, the famous English author. He refers to this trip in his "Memoirs of America." William Henry Harrison also traveled this historic railroad at the time of his inauguration, stopping at the famous old hostelry on the top of the mountains, where the Old Portage crosses the state highway.

The first train of cars from the east came into Altoona and ran through to Duncannon, crossing over the mountains by the old Portage Railroad on December 10, 1850. The Hollidaysburg branch was the main line at that time. In this connection, the Logan House was built in 1853 to offer over night accommodations to passengers at the base of the eastern slope of the mountains. It was named for Chief Logan, a noted Indian. Trains passing thru the city on their way over the mountains would stop over for 20 minutes, which afforded opportunity for the traveler to obtain something to eat at the hotel. It is said that when passenger trains came into the city, the head waiter would sound a large Chinese gong, summoning the passengers

The interesting announcement is made by the Bureau of Internal Revenue that "the United States Government wins the big end of the purse" from the Dempsey-Firpo fight. In addition to the $108,000 collected as a tax on the gate receipts, income taxes and surtaxes exacted on the principals, and of Rickard, the promoter, will give the government about $500,000 of the $1,200,000 paid by the fight fans.

The season for snake stories is about at an end and every self-respecting rattler has, no doubt ere this, crawled to the particular rock pile or cleft in the hillside which he calls home and burrowed for the winter, yet the following concerning "Rattlesnake Pete" Gruber ought to interest at least those lovers of the outdoors in this region who like to keep posted on the rattler and his ways and the method of the expert to counteract the poison when bitten by a rattler.

"Rattlesnake Pete" Gruber has been in the snake business for years, hence the name. When he was a boy at his Venango county home, gathering banded rattlers was one of his sports. He has been bitten more than a score of times and has spent many weeks in hospitals swathed in bandages and enduring agonizing pain. But he is still at it. In an interview some years since in regard to his inoculation by poisonous snakes he said:

"I never suck the wound. If there were any slight superficial wound in the mouth, like a scratch, the venom would get into the system and perhaps prove fatal. Directly after I've been bitten I cut the flesh around the puncture, and make another wound between the injured spot and the heart with a sharp knife which I always carry for use in case of such emergency. Into these two self-inflicted wounds I inject permanganate of potash, which has the effect of nullifying the poison."

Rattlesnakes are not found anywhere save in America. Along the Pennsylvania line in this state they abound. In northern New York they are unknown. The Adirondacks advertise, "not a poisonous snake or weed in the North Woods," which helps make it a popular location for campers.

Rattlesnakes are classed as the most dangerous of all reptiles on this continent. They belong to the viper family and come in twelve species and thirteen varieties. They do most of their traveling by night. They are extremely fastidious in matters of diet, preferring to starve rather than eat anything they do not like.

Curwensville's Own Column

From an article published in last day's North American, we glean intelligence of the sudden death, accident, of a former Curwensville girl, Miss Edwina Smith, a daughter of Edwin Smith, a former resident of the South Side. The young lady was in training for a profession in Philadelphia. On Saturday she hired a horse for a ride. In turning to the city she met an automobile at which the horse took fright and stopped suddenly, throwing the rider over its head. In alighting Miss Smith's neck was broken. Her age was about 22 years. The body was removed from Curwensville to McConnellsburg, Fulton county, some few years ago.

On Wednesday evening the Order of Red Men has arranged to install newly elected officers, the ceremony to take place in their wigwam on the third floor of the Fullerton block.

According to published statistics, Curwensville's school district will receive for the year 1923 a financial appropriation of $9,010.20 from the State. The February allotment was $4,312.35 and that of August $4,697.85. Pike township's appropriation from the same source for this year amounts in round numbers to $4,682.2. The first payment being the sum of $2,053.16 and the second reaching a trifle more, it being $2,465.16.

A week ago it was sensed that the State Highway lying between upper State street and the Roaring Run would open for traffic on Saturday last. This understanding was misconstrued somehow, however, for the road is still closed and it is very hard to predict what day the barriers will be removed.

Bartell Brothers yesterday closed a deal with J. E. Carpenter and wife of Pittsburgh, for a parcel or plot of ground lying between the Park House and Tanyard Run, the purchase price being $6,000. The new owners contemplate erecting thereon a large brick front, two story structure, work to be commenced as soon as the necessary arrangements can be completed.

E. R. Edwards has purchased the dwelling house and lot on North Filbert street formerly owned and occupied by Frank Hastings and family. Mr. Edwards expects to remove into his new possession within the next few days, as he is compelled to vacate the house he has occupied for several years on South Filbert street, it having been sold to other parties. Mr. Edwards paid the sum of $5,000, for the Hastings property.

Edwards Brothers have purchased and taken over the Joe Walker garage situated on South Side of State street and east of the Dr. Blair residence. The purchase included stock, material and good will of the concern.

The Misses Catherine, Margaret and Gussie Anderson of Patton, who spent more than a week with relatives over on High street, made an auto tour last week through the northern section of the state, accompanied by Andrew Anderson and wife. The party returned to Curwensville Saturday and on Sunday were taken to their Cambria county home.

HEARD ALONG THE BANKS OF THE MOSHANNON

Miss Rose Pontroy and Jennings Johnson, her popular young residents of Phillipsburg, were united in marriage at the Presbyterian Manse Saturday afternoon, Rev. Dr. J. T. Scott, performing the ceremony. After a brief honeymoon trip the couple will take up their residence in Phillipsburg.

A great many of our people motored to A. during the week end to see the ZR-1, the largest airship in the world. Others got a glimpse of it as it passed over Houtzdale Monday, and people residing a few miles below Phillipsburg could see it at a great distance.

The local High School lost to State College in its opening football game of the season, played at Scott Field, Phillipsburg. The score was 13-7. Both teams played loosely, but with a little more practice some fine players will be found in both teams.

DIED IN CALIFORNIA

John O. Magwire, a native of Graham township, died at the Paradise Valley sanitarium, National City, California, on Monday, Sept. 10, 1923. The deceased was the son of James and Emily Wilhelm Magwire, old time Graham township citizens, but spent the greater part of his life in Oregon and California. He was ill but a few days before death ensued. He was buried in Mt. Hope cemetery, San Diego, Calif. He is survived by his widow, one brother and a sister, J. Irvin Magwire, of Morrisdale, and Mrs. John Williams, of South Fork, Pa. Mrs. Williams was with her brother when he died, being on a visit to his home when her brother was taken sick. A month previous to this time was the first time brother and sister had met in forty years.

How to tell for sure what oil your car needs Important: If you drive—

a Hudson Super Six

The Hudson Super Six engine is of the six cylinder, vertical, L-head, water cooled type, of 3 1/2" bore by 5" stroke.

It employs a highly developed splash circulating lubricating system. An elevated oil pump, plunger type, draws oil from the reservoir in the crankcase and delivers it to the splash trough under No. 1 cylinder, in amounts exactly proportional to the load requirements and controlled by the throttle opening.

The oil overflows from No. 1 splash trough to No. 2, from No. 2 to No. 3, and so on, thus maintaining a level in all troughs. From the sixth or last splash trough, the oil returns to the reservoir and is recirculated. Lubrication of the entire working mechanism is dependent upon the splash created by the oil provided on the connecting rod caps, which are designed to distribute the oil from the splash troughs to all parts of the engine.

All Hudson models prior to 1923 were equipped with cast-iron pistons. The 1923 models are, however, fitted with aluminum pistons of the constant clearance type.

Piston material and design have an important bearing on lubrication. The temperature at which the piston operates affects the formation of carbon deposit and the tendency of the engine to knock. The amount of oil passing into the combustion chamber also affects the formation of carbon deposit and depends to a large extent upon the piston design.

With the cast-iron pistons used in the models prior to 1923, the piston temperatures are higher than with the aluminum pistons now used; therefore an exceptionally clean burning oil of the proper character should be used to minimize carbon deposit and reduce the tendency of the fuel to knock or "ping."

With the new aluminum pistons of the constant clearance type, the tendency toward carbon formation is reduced. The design is also such that passage of any excess of oil into the combustion chamber is prevented. Consequently a heavier lubricating oil can be employed without inducing detrimental carbon formation.

The knocking or "pinging" often experienced with an overheated or badly carbonized engine is caused by the way in which the present day fuels burn. High compression, high temperatures and carbon deposits tend to increase the knocking tendency. Consequently it is desirable to reduce carbon formation in so far as is possible and this, therefore, has an important bearing on the selection of the correct oil for an engine.

It is vitally important that the lubricating oil used in an engine be of such character that it will be circulated by the lubricating system under all conditions. Where an elevated plunger pump is employed and where the oil is distributed by splash, as in the Hudson car, the use in cold weather of an oil which flows freely at low temperatures is imperative.

All of the above factors and many others are considered before determining the correct oil for the Hudson car.

For models previous to 1923 we advise the use of Gargyle Mobiloil Arctic the year round. For the 1923 models, Gargyle Mobiloil "A" should be used in summer and Gargyle Mobiloil Arctic in winter.

bon deposits accumulate.

Where natural circulation of the cooling water (thermo-siphon system) is employed as in the Maxwell design, it is desirable to use a warm weather oil which is suitable for fairly high operating temperatures. Such an oil will be thoroughly atomized and distributed by the Maxwell lubricating system under the conditions of summer operation.

To assure circulation of the lubricating oil in cold weather, the use of an oil which flows freely at low temperatures is necessary because of the elevated location of the oil pump with its long connection to the oil reservoir.

To meet correctly these and other important lubrication features of the Maxwell design, we recommend for the 1922 and 1923 models, the use of Gargyle Mobiloil "A" in summer and Gargyle Mobiloil Arctic in winter. For the 1921 and earlier models, Gargyle Mobiloil Arctic should be used both summer and winter.

a Franklin

The dominant feature of the Franklin car is the use of air cooling. In the 1923 model the air is forced between the cooling fins on each of the six cylinders by means of a blower located at the front of the engine. In previous years the air was sucked over the cooling surfaces by an exhaust fan incorporated in the fly-wheel.

Valve-in-head construction is employed in all models. The compression carried in the 1923 engine is 70 lbs.; in the earlier models, 60 lbs. Aluminum alloy pistons of the modern slotted and split skirt constant clearance type are used in the 1922 and 1923 models. A multi-split skirt type of aluminum alloy piston having spiral grooving for oil distribution was used in the 1919, 1920 and 1921 models. Both types of pistons are fitted with three rings; in the 1921 and subsequent models two of these rings have been specially designed to prevent oil pumping.

The lubricating system employed is of the force feed type, feeding oil under pressure to the main and connecting rod bearings. The oil pump is of the gear type and distributes to each bearing a definite quantity of oil at intervals in proportion to the engine speed.

Where air cooling is employed, the operating temperatures are normally somewhat higher than with water cooling. Consequently, a heavier bodied lubricant than commonly used with water cooling is preferable in order to provide adequate lubrication under all conditions of service.

In the Franklin design the possibilities for detrimental carbon deposit are minimized by the very effective oil control. The amount thrown to the cylinders is definitely regulated by the metered pump feed; the constant clearance design of the aluminum pistons permits close clearances and affords a very effective oil return through the slots below the piston rings.

In addition, the ping design is

FAIR RETAIL PRICE —30c A QUART

When the dealer sells a quart of Gargyle Mobiloil for less than 30c, he does not make his fair, reasonable profit. Lower prices often accompany substitution of low quality oil for genuine Gargyle Mobiloil. Prices are slightly higher in Canada, the Southwest, and the Far West.

an Overland

The Overland Four engine is of the vertical, L-head type, water-cooled by natural circulation, no pump being employed (thermo-siphon system). Unlike conventional designs, the clutch and transmission gears are lubricated by the engine oil except for some cars produced during 1921 when these parts were separately lubricated.

The piston material is cast-iron and each piston is fitted with three rings and six 3/16" oil return holes under the third ring. A moderate compression of 60 lbs. is carried.

Oil is distributed to all the working parts by a splash circulating system. The fly-wheel acts as a pump to carry oil up to a strainer pocket on the right side of the engine. After filtering, the oil flows through tubes in the crankcase to the main bearings under slight pressure and also to the splash troughs. From these, it is distributed to all other engine parts by the splash created by the connecting rod dipper.

The clutch, transmission gears and bearings, also the front universal joint, receive their oil supply from the spray thrown by the fly-wheel.

When the clutch and transmission gears are lubricated by the engine oil it is desirable, in order to provide the maximum of protection for the ing conditions. Consequently, lubrication is assured at all temperatures.

In analyzing the lubricating requirements of the Franklin engine, these and many other characteristics of its design have been considered. To obtain the best results, we advise the use of Gargyle Mobiloil "BB" at all times in the 1922 and 1923 models. For models prior to 1922 use Gargyle Mobiloil "A" the year round.

teeth which often operate under heavy loads to use as much as a lubricating oil as can be employed without causing excessive "dragging" of the clutch.

The use of oil return holes in the piston under the third piston ring as employed in the Overland design, tends to prevent any excess oil reaching the combustion chambers and consequently reduces the tendency toward carbon formation. Should carbon accumulate, the moderate compression minimizes the tendency of the fuel to knock.

In cold weather, it is necessary, where distribution of the oil is by splash, to use an oil which will flow freely and readily create a fine spray at low temperatures. Otherwise, some of the working parts may not be lubricated. To minimize the clutch drag due to thickening of the oil on the contact surfaces it is desirable to use a more fluid oil in winter weather.

To meet these special features of Overland Four design, we advise for the engine the use in summer of Gargyle Mobiloil "A" and in winter of Gargyle Mobiloil Arctic. For the transmission of those 1921 models, not lubricated by the engine oil, use Gargyle Mobiloil "C". The same grade should be used in the differential of all models.

a Maxwell

The late model Maxwell engines are designed with force feed lubricating systems in which oil is forced under pressure to the three main bearings. Holes drilled in the crankshaft carry the oil under pressure from the main bearings to the connecting rod bearings. The other moving parts are lubricated by the oil mist which is created when the oil is forced out through the close clearances at the ends of the connecting rod bearings.

The oil circulating pump is of the impeller type and is located at the camshaft level, drawing its supply through a pipe connecting with a strainer in the oil reservoir.

Aluminum pistons of the constant clearance type are employed. The skirt or bearing part of this type of piston is slotted on one side to provide for expansion under heat and therefore permits the use of close clearances. In addition, horizontal slots are cut through the piston below the lower ring to permit the free return of oil from the cylinder walls.

With the effective control of the oil supply which is secured by this oil return provision on the pistons, the possibility of carbon formation is minimized. In addition, the characteristics of aluminum as a piston material tend to prevent the fuel knock which often occurs when car-

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

It is far more beneficial to the engine if you add a small quantity of oil every day rather than larger quantities at less frequent intervals. Careful car operators, taxi-cab companies, and owners of motor truck fleets make it a practice to see that the oil is at the proper level every morning before the car goes out. With a 5-gallon can or 5- or 30-gallon drum of the correct grade of Gargyle Mobiloil on hand you will always be ready to give your car this valuable attention.

The crankcase should be entirely drained off at least every 1000 miles in summer and every 500 miles in winter. When draining the oil, the removable screen (if your crankcase) should also be cleaned. Draw off the old oil when the engine is warm, as the oil then flows more freely and tends to wash out a dry foreign matter. (Never flush the crankcase with kerosene.) Then refill with the correct grade of Gargyle Mobiloil.

Oklahoma, heralded to the world as the center of disturbance and lawlessness, proved her mettle in the early hours of the voting today by going about that duty in an orderly and business like way. Naturally, before the polls close, there will be some disorder, but Pennsylvania can hardly point the finger of shame on that account. Pittsburgh, in the recent primary, was the scene of many fights and near riots. News stories tell of some of the polls not being open. This, too, happened in Pittsburgh. In one instance, an election was held out on the street corner, the election officials neglecting to provide election quarters.

The election today will settle nothing, but it will not be without its advantages. During the days leading up to the election and the days following the election attention will be focused on this phase of the difficulty rather than on the main contention.

Meanwhile time should temper the contending parties somewhat and bring them back to sanity and order.

WHY CHILDREN TELL WHAT WE CALL LIES

Lies told by children are often the deductions of infantile logic with no intent to deceive, and deserve the study of a psychologist rather than a reprimand or a whipping, according to Professor A. N. Farmer.

"Mendacity in children recently has been the subject of investigation in France," said Professor Farmer. "The result has been clearer understanding of a child's mode of reasoning. A French psychologist says the mind of the adult operates in five ways, classified as follows: Deductive reasoning, in which an accumulation of facts furnishes proof; cursory induction based on facts which justify a theory but do not constitute proof; belief founded upon association of ideas, and perceptive belief.

The logic of the child is concerned only with the last three processes. A little girl said she had met the Virgin Mary, who had given her a peach. It turned out that she had met a woman in white with a blue belt who reminded the child of an image of the Virgin she had seen. A little boy said that on a journey he had seen people and houses as big as his toes. The explanation was that from a high hill he had seen people and their homes in a valley diminished to toy size by distance."

ODD FELLOWS TO MEET AT JOHNSTOWN

Moxham Lodge, No. 1044, located on Coleman Avenue will act as host to the delegates and friends who will gather to attend the second quarterly session of the Allegheny Region Anniversary Association, I. O. O. F. to be held in the "Flood City" on Wednesday, October 3rd.

The meeting held at Bedford last July, much interest centered around this meeting, owing to the fact that delegates from Johnstown Clearfield, Huntingdon and Somerset each sought to carry it to their respective towns, and it was only after an election that Johnstown was decided upon. To this season delegates in large numbers are expected from subordinate lodges, encampments, Lebekah Lodges and Chapters of the archaic Militant of Bedford, Blair, Cambria, Centre, Clearfield, Huntingdon, Juniata, Mifflin, Indiana, Somerset and Westmoreland counties. They will go to learn ways and means to bring the Odd Fellows of the region into closer contact with each other, to promote the spiritual, intellectual and social welfare of the lodges represented; to quicken the activity and increase the efficiency of the membership of the lodges in this section of the State, and to plan for the annual public celebration which will be held at Ebensburg next April.

—From a "Keep Well" Leaflet on "Overstimulation," Issued by the Life Extension Institute.

Why not avoid "counting the cost?"

REST is better than a whipping, for tired nerves and muscles—better for today and infinitely better for tomorrow when the penalties of over-driving are likely to come due in headaches, nervousness, and increased difficulty of sleeping.

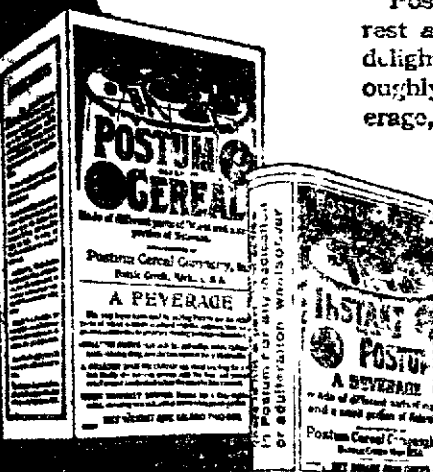

Postum is a good friend of rest and health. Postum is a delightful, comforting and thoroughly satisfying mealtime beverage, splendid in flavor and appeal—but containing no drug which can excite nerves or disturb digestion.

If you are whipping up nerves with coffee or tea, try a change to Postum. It will supply all the comfort and pleasure of a hot milky drink, and it will let you get the natural sleep and rest that puts strength and zest in a tired mind, nerves and muscles. You'll be counting profits instead of costs.

Your grocer sells Postum in the form of Instant Postum (in tin) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in package) for those who prefer the flavor brought out by boiling full of milk. The cost of either form is about one-half cent.

"There's a Reason" for Postum

Progress Editorial For Women

ACT WELL YOUR PART
By FLORENCE DAVIES

The good actor is always wholly engrossed in giving a perfect performance of whatever part he has been assigned to portray. He gives his whole time and energy of body and mind to putting the character across, to creating just the right impression to stirring his audiences to vicarious participation in the play. He submerges himself in it, he loses his own personality to gain the personality of the role he portrays, so much so that sometimes he even forgets there are other actors on the stage, each one presumably also striving to give the same perfection of performance.

Sometimes this has brought forth criticism; actors have been blamed for taking too much of the stage, or for taking their own parts too seriously that they have forgotten the right of the other members of the cast to have their parts played. But usually criticism comes from the minor actors, the really great are usually "too busy" with their own effort to displace the way in which others handle theirs.

In real life, the girl who follows the good actor? How often we forget to watch our own parts and leave the portrayal of the other woman's where it belongs—in her hands. Don't we sometimes complain that the children are lacking in respect, that husband does not act the vivid lover of the tale or story told? Perhaps the children haven't the stimulus of a great actor to lead them on and draw them out. In the world, maybe you haven't put over your mother role in the right way to force respect, loyalty and confidence. Have you been lukewarm in your character, halting, stumbling and amateurish in your lines? How, then, expect the others in the family cast to play up to a heroine who can't hold the stage?

How do you know that Hero? Husband isn't playing his part as it was written? Because you've been watching his portrayal critically, instead of wholeheartedly and whole-souled. Watching yourself into your own. Watching him your own acting becomes a lackadaisical, wishy-washy performance, and the star has never the other members of the cast to play his parts to play up to a heroine who can't hold the stage?

New York Steam Corporation
Preferred Stock, 7% Cumulative, Series A

For value $100 a share. Dividends payable quarterly on the 1st of January, April, July and October. E. I. made as a stockholder at the option of the corporation on any dividend payment with 15 days' notice at $115 per share, including dividend.

Issuance authorized by the Public Service Commission of the State of New York.

Application will be made to list this Stock on the New York Stock Exchange.

Net earnings for the twelve months ended July 31, 1923, were over twice interest charges on funded and unfunded debt and dividend requirements on the Preferred Stock to be presently outstanding. For the same period, the balance as shown above after the payment of interest charges, was over six times such Preferred Stock dividend requirements.

Based on an appraisal approved by the Public Service Commission for their with subsequent addition of the value of the property of the Corporation, less depreciation, and the aggregate of bonds and Preferred Stock outstanding, it indicates an equity for the holder of over $650 a share.

Price $2 and accrued dividend, yielding over 7.60%

SUITS ENLARGED

Among the recent suits entered in Prothonotary Ralston's office is one by Dulton, Forsyth & Bell, representing the Miller, Franklin, Bassett Co., Co New York City, who are suing the Beehive Coal Company for $544.47, alleged to be due to the plaintiff for auditing the books of the Coal Company.

Attorney Louis T. Bone, of DuBois, on behalf of John E. Powell, is suing the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. for damages not exceeding $5,000. No statement of claim was filed with the suit and the nature of same is not stated.

W. B. Adams and J. C. Long, Esqs. of Punxsutawney, on behalf of Alice L. Smith, have entered suit against the City of DuBois, in which damages are asked not to exceed $2500.

Suit was entered in Prothonotary Ralston's Office today by Dulton, Forsyth & Bell, representing Derrick Brothers, local automobile dealers, and against the Clearfield Park Association, by which Derrick Brothers seek to recover $10,321.95 from the Park Association.

The statement filed by the plaintiff alleges that on August 29th last they entered into an oral agreement with A. E. Leitzinger, one of the Park Directors whereby Derrick Brothers were to build a shed in which to make their automobile exhibit, it being stipulated that in addition to erecting their own shed the automobile dealers should also be permitted to pay the same fee for exhibiting their automobiles that was charged other exhibitors. In accordance with the Park Directors erected their shed at the juncture of the main driveway and the road past the stalls and leading to the McBride street entrance.

On Sept. 17th Derrick Brothers were notified that at a meeting of the Board of Directors it was decided that their arrangement could not be carried out and the Derrick Brothers would have to come down and when the Park Association and Derrick Brothers were notified when they attempted to rebuild it.

The statement further recites that the fair attracted 65,000 visitors and that by reason of the facts set forth above plaintiffs were hindered and prevented from making the exhibit contemplated by them and as a result thereof lost many prospective customers and prestige; were hindered from making sales and contracts for sales for a total of $10,321.95, being damaged to the extent of $10,000. The cost of erecting the shed was $381.05.

BATTLE OF BALLOTS

legal election, where an opportunity is had, as required by law, to present the issue to the voters.

Reports received here were that in all but five of the 75 counties the poll opened on schedule time.

W. C. McAllister, secretary of the state election board, sent notice to the election officials in these counties that they would be arrested and prosecuted on charges of unlawfully interfering with an election.

"You or any other man who interferes with this election will be sent to the penitentiary," McAllister wired Sheriff Conn in Bryan county, where the polls were padlocked. "Neither the Governor nor any other man can stop the election."

As the voting progressed, additional deputies were being sworn in. Shortly before 8:00 a. m. Sheriff Commissioner Cavnar announced 500 men were patrolling the voting places in Oklahoma City, center of the Governor's military rule.

All of the deputies were heavily armed despite Governor Walton's orders, issued to military headquarters, that they disarm under threat of arrest by guardsmen.

Add Blunders of Authors. Edith Wharton in one of her earlier novels describes a man as walking on "stony" beach "his arms and legs thrust to his sides." But a worse blunder occurs in her latest book, "The Age of Innocence," where she has two of her characters, Archer and May, married with the words of the funeral service—Easton Transcript.

SOME WATCHES WE GET ARE IN BAD SHAPE

But, bad as they may be, they always go out in good shape. They are thoroughly gone over, cleaned, repaired and put together. Then, we give them a long test to see that they are running along as sweet as we wish before we trust them out to you.

Just the other day, we got one and the dirt was actually caked on it, and when we got through with it, everything was running along as smooth as the day it came from the factory.

A REMARKABLE SHOWING MADE IN CLEARFIELD

Have you stopped to think what a wonderful showing this city has made during the past couple of years relative to disease epidemics? And have you thought that, while surrounding towns have had epidemics that have been serious, Clearfield has gone through with only one case in the two years?

And this one case of communicable disease is oftentimes traced to the milk supply. But conditions this time are easily traced to another source, so that the pasteurization process comes thru with banners flying, proving that it is the only way to have the milk treated before it comes to your table.

Be sure your milk is pasteurized.

THE BEST CLOTHING STORE FOR YOU

You don't care how good a store is, if it isn't good for you; your money ought to benefit you more than the store.

Of course every clothing store wants your trade; we do. And we figure that the best way to get it is to make this a store FOR YOU. If we do that and you know it, we'll have business enough.

Our ideas in making a store that serves its customers' interests first is this:

1. Good quality in merchandise is necessary.
2. Prices as low as good quality allows; there's a bigger total profit in many sales at a small margin than in a few sales at a large margin.
3. Guarantee the customer's satisfaction.

These are some of the ideas we have to make this "The best clothing store for you"

Small Everitts—Gilted by the Ridgway Company

BEGAN HERE TODAY

Hope Ranger, daughter of wealthy parents, disappeared after having been seen at the house of her friend, Lucia. The girl had been seen by her mother at a point on the highway near the house of her friend, Lucia. The girl had been seen by her mother at a point on the highway near the house of her friend, Lucia.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

It seemed for a time that the promised intervention of Lucia would have to be deferred; for on reaching the house, he found her already without awaiting any response and when a servant finally appeared to answer the knock, it required all his powers of persuasion to gain admittance.

But when Mrs. Thorne came down and had explained the nature of his errand, she readily accepted the situation and as soon as Lucia could make a hasty toilet, sent her into the room alone.

The girl, he had to confess, seemed appalled at the news her mother had brought her and genuinely alarmed for Hope's safety.

Hope had been in the spirit at luncheon, she said, and they had talked of a dozen things—Lucia's recent trip abroad, clothes, mutual acquaintances, both men and girls, their plans for the summer. She had teased Hope about two or three men, but Hope had merely shrugged her shoulders and laughed. "I'd be loveless, Lucia," she had said, "if some one wasn't going to get me married. I haven't seen the man I'd marry yet, not for a farm."

When they parted, it was with an arrangement to see each other the next afternoon, and Hope had given her the slightest suggestion of any thing unusual on hand. She had said something about going to the tailor's, and possibly doing a bit of shopping before she went home; that was all.

This left Lucia no recourse to appeal to the police; and here he proved himself, on one score at least, a true prophet. The five thousand dollar reward he offered furnished all the incentive required to set the department going at full steam. Within 12 hours the movements of Hope Ranger were known to a certainty from the time she left her father's door at 11 minutes after 11 until a quarter past three that afternoon.

Leaving home, she had walked down the east side of the Avenue. At 15 minutes to one o'clock, she had stopped at a corner and bought a gardenia. Then she had crossed at Fifty-ninth Street and met her friend at the Plaza, had gone with Lucia Thorne into the dining-room, remained there an hour, and left the Thorne at 10 minutes past two. At half after two, she had bought a veil in a millinery and dressmaking establishment on Fifty-seventh Street, and had been recognized and called by name by the saleswoman. From there she had gone to a bookstore and asked for a book which she had previously ordered.

She was next seen at the soda-water counter of a fruit-and-sweet shop, where she ordered a maple sundae. It was then exactly 10 minutes after three, the clerk being able to fix the time so definitely from the fact that just after he had set Miss Ranger's order before her, a disturbance had been created by a customer at the cashier's desk over a question of correct change. The altercation had become so heated that the manager of the place had been summoned.

Miss Ranger, like every one else in the shop, had turned to watch the incident, and then, when it had over settled, she finished her sundae and went out. And from that point, the investigation ran into a blank wall.

After four days of assiduous effort on the part of the Police Department, aided now by an army of private detectives, no clue had been unearthed to indicate what had become of her or whether she had come.

Mrs. Ranger was by this time under the care of physicians all over the city and was in a state of extreme grief and worry; and her husband, who had been and haggard, his straight shoulders bowed, looked 20 years older. Even Eugene Higby, who had the effect of the strain in his desperation, had decided to make the facts public and every newspaper in the country was filled with descriptions of the missing girl.

CHAPTER IV

RANGER'S pipes are known all over the world. Buy a pipe—clay, calabash, meerschaum, briar root or what-not, and in what corner of the globe—and the chances are ten to one that "Ranger & Co., Makers," will be found stamped on it.

The factory and salesrooms occupy

HE LAID HIS HAND ON RANGER'S SHOULDER.

a block on Seventh Avenue near Fourteenth Street, and there, as a matter of habit, Ranger continued to go daily in the attempt to win some success from anxiety or shortening himself in the accustomed routine.

No ready was he to listen to every wild story or suggestion offered him that it had been found necessary to post guards before his office door to protect him from the invasion of cranks and impostors.

Thus, one morning, Number One of the cordon peremptorily halted a rascal who had attempted to stroll by him, and who now with too much assurance to be pleasing said that he wished to see "Ranger."

The off-hand manner, as well as the lack of the prefix of "Mister," annoyed the guard. Neither did he find the stranger's appearance prepossessing. Dark, lean, his clothes unpressed, his hat tilted, the man swaggered before him.

"Ranger, eh?"—with heavy sarcasm. "Well, I got to tell you that the boss is busy this morning and can't see anybody—even you."

The visitor shifted his hat to another and more disreputable angle, took an old pipe from his pocket and began to fill it.

"You're new here, my lad; that's plain. But, if you're in doubt take my name, either to Frank Bryan or Loring himself."

The guard scowled, but wavered in his decision to throw the man out. He trusted his own impressions more than he did this airy certainty of welcome. Yet the fellow seemed so confidently sure.

He covered his hesitation with treacherous repartee. "Well, a point I do. Who shall I say it is that wants the boss—Loring or Herbert Hoover?"

"Neither." The man flicked a raveling from his sleeve. "He'll probably see me sooner if you give it to him directly. Just say my good man, that Juarez Charlie is here."

Juarez Charlie, in the face of such a designation, Number One felt an unusual estimate of the man talking to him. And yet there was something in that dark, obscure glance in the feeling only a walled-in intellect could have scratched his jaw.

"I don't know but what I'll take a chance on you," he finally decided. "You ain't so much worse than a lot of 'em I've had to let go. But I'll give you a word of authority—If I set in wrong, you'd better not wait. I'm coming back and if they don't want you, I'll just naturally wipe up the street with you."

As he came into the presence of Ranger's private secretary, Frank Bryan, the impulse that had led him to take it to terms of the rascal's visitor weakened, and he stood shuffling his feet uncertain what to say.

"Mr. Bryan, sir, there's a party out there that wants to see Mr. Ranger. He said to tell you or Mr. Ranger that Juarez Charlie."

"Juarez Charlie?" the secretary snapped. "Why don't you say so? Show him into the private office at once."

The bewildered guard returned to his post.

"This way, mister," he beckoned with disgruntled civility. "Never mind." He waved Number One aside. "I know the way."

He passed on, a privileged character, exchanging a word or two with different employees in the outer office and nodding familiarity to others; for rolling-stone adventures though he was, grifter and swindler as he was suspected of being, Juarez Charlie was welcome here to come and go as he pleased.

He and Loring Ranger had been boys together.

More than once the successful manufacturer had urged his old associate to take a position with him, offering Charlie his choice either inside the factory or on the road; for it was Ranger's firm belief that the vagabond, if he would only devote himself to it, would make an incomparable salesman.

But Charlie always evaded these "forts at rehabilitation."

His special gifts were various; perhaps the less said about them the better. He employed them when he felt like it and when opportunity offered; loafing when he felt like it; and constantly about the company's sometimes first-class, sometimes second-class, knowledge of the United States than any other man within its borders, and regarded life on the whole with a cynical, good-natured philosophy which no enemies could daunt or misfortune overwhelm.

There was an unwonted tug of sympathy at Charlie's wrinkled heart, and on a sudden impulse he stepped over and laid his hand on Ranger's shoulder.

"Touch luck, Lorry," he said huskily. "But don't give me like this, boy. Brace up! It ain't—it ain't as if your little girl were gone for good."

The friendly touch, the sincerity of feeling in his tone brought an unexpected response. A tremor ran through the manufacturer's bent frame; then, with a groan, he dropped his head in his hands.

"It's no use, Charlie." His voice came brokenly. "No use to try and deceive myself. She is gone for good."

He turned away to hide his working face, then twisted round and began to talk rapidly. Here at last was some one to whom he could lay bare all that was in his mind.

"Look at the facts, Charlie. Look at the facts. It's a month yesterday since Hope went away—was taken away, I mean—and in all that time not a word from her—not a word of her. Only this horrible silence—like a thick black curtain meeting me everywhere I turn."

abouting property owners will pay two-thirds of $2,531.87.

Want Alley Closed.

A communication was read to Council from the Penn Public Service Company, requesting the alley leading from South Second street between the St. Francis school property and lot of Fred J. Thompson, alleging that Mr. Thompson had closed the alley and the property owners desired to use it and as it was shown on the borough plat as an alley the petitioners asked Council to have same opened. It was learned that Council had never exercised any jurisdiction over the alley and therefore the matter was one for the property owners to issue to settle.

Street Water Situation.

Borough Solicitor Urey reported on the Spruce street water question. He said he had taken the matter of extending the water line on Spruce street up with J. B. Neveling, superintendent of the water company, and he said if the property owners affected would make their application jointly and together the extension would be made.

Mr. Urey also reported collections of $28.50 and presented his check for same.

Want Pay For Dead Horse.

The Borough Solicitor read a letter from Bolton, Forsyth & Bell, in which they asked pay for Sam Cobble's dead horse. About ten days ago, while a ten-year-old boy was riding the horse down Daisy street, the animal became frightened and making a sort of diaphanous of himself jumped over the curb onto the plot between the curb and sidewalk. He lit on the board covering over a sewer manhole, dropped seven feet into the sewer and received injuries which necessitated his being killed the following day. Sam wants $500 and the doctor bill for the horse. The matter was referred to the Borough Solicitor for investigation and report as to the liability of the borough for the circumstances.

Light For West Front Street.

Chairman Ellis of the Property Committee reported that a light was needed at West Front and Council streets and that the light at corner of Clearfield and William streets, now completely hidden in a tree top, be captured, removed to a place where it will show some light and the secretary was directed to notify the Penn Public Service Company accordingly.

Want East End Sidewalk.

Notice to build a sidewalk on East side of property on East Front street was ordered served on Paul A. Cox, a complaint was made that sidewalk now necessary due to the improvement in that section.

NEW EAST END FIRM

Earl Yeager and Edward Yeager, well known East End men, have purchased and taken charge yesterday of Gilliland Brothers store on Daisy street. The new firm will conduct an up-to-date general store in the old Gilliland stand.

Earl Yeager is no stranger in Clearfield, merchants here, for he has been a valued customer of the Rosser Furniture Company for the past seventeen years and is an accomplished, competent salesman and business man. His partner Ed-

Yeager has been employed at No. 2 brick works for many years and is also well known and popular in that community.

The new firm starts out with bright prospects and will succeed if fair, honest dealings and dependable merchandise will do it.

Moved to Medical.

Florida's health resort, which has been keeping the citizens of the yard for quite a while. He was beginning to get disgruntled with the way. Going to the doctor to see what was the matter. "What do you think I am, a chicken shepherd?"

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Relieved of Nervousness and Other Distressing Ailments by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound four years ago, and am taking it now for the Change of Life and other troubles and I receive great benefit from it. I am willing to let you use my letter as a testimonial because it's the truth. I found your booklet in my letter-box and read it carefully, and that is how I came to take the Vegetable Compound myself. It has given me quiet nerves so that I sleep all night, and a better appetite. I have recommended it already to all my friends and relatives."—Mrs. ENGLEMAN, 2032 Palmetto St., Ridgewood, Brooklyn, N. Y.

For the woman suffering from nervousness, headache, hysteria, "the blues," Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will be found a splendid medicine. For the woman of middle age who is passing through the trials of that period, it can be depended upon to relieve the troubles common at that time.

Remember, the Vegetable Compound has a record of nearly fifty years of service and thousands of women praise its merit, as does Mrs. Englemann.

You would give it a fair trial now.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Stewart left yesterday for Pittsburgh, where Dr. Stewart will attend the Medical Association meetings.

Mrs. Thomas March and Mrs. Tibbets returned to their homes in Greensburg yesterday. Mrs. F. G. Betts driving them as far as Tyrone.

Mr. and Mrs. Hursh Johnson and children of Summitville, O., spent last Friday in Clearfield. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and daughter going on to Harrisburg, Philadelphia and New York on business.

Clair Etzweiler of Export, Ind., is visiting relatives in Clearfield for a week.

The Other Roosevelt

ROOSEVELT the shy, awkward boy, held back by ill health and above all, by poor eyesight—how unfamiliar that is!

Yet, in his writings, he tells us that as a boy, quite unknown to himself, he was under a fearful disadvantage—he was near-sighted. Properly fitted glasses opened up a new world for him.

Like Roosevelt, "quite unknown to yourself," YOU may need glasses. Only an examination will tell you!

Battle of Ballots Proceeds Without Bloodshed: Oklahoma Quiet As Citizens Cast Votes

Common Sense Prevails and All Sides Agree to Orderly Carrying Out of Official Rulings.

A BIG VOTE IS OUT

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 2.—Oklahoma laid away its six-shooter today and called for its ballot.

Polling places opened generally throughout the state at 7:00 a. m. today for voters to cast their vote in the special election, which was banned by Governor J. C. Walton.

Armed citizens actually slept on the floor in many cities to insure the security of the election supplies.

Reports from throughout the state were that the balloting started in an orderly manner in nearly all counties.

Walton's political supporters were in charge of the election machinery, the polling places failed to open.

Walton, who opposed the election because the people are voting on a proposed law providing that the legislature may meet for the purpose of impeaching the governor, without being summoned by the executive, continued efforts throughout the night to prevent the balloting.

He issued a statement, addressed to the "People of Oklahoma," banning the "pretended election" and asked the people to preserve peace and good order.

He issued a call for an election on November 6 at which a measure, allowing the legislature to convene itself could be submitted to the people.

If the Oklahoma people want to amend the constitution so that the Ku Klux Klan legislators can impeach thereby removing all restraint on the Klan, I don't want to see them do it.

The governor said he would not use military force to prevent the election.

He said he mobilized his 22,000 state militia, 15,000 voluntary "minute men" and the national guard of the state to suppress lawlessness in connection with the election.

Military law restraint enforced in many sections of the state as a result of the Governor's fight on the Ku Klux Klan was slightly relaxed for the election.

The Governor said military law could be clamped down again after the voting.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 2.—A deputy sheriff accidentally shot himself in the county court house here shortly after the polls opened today.

The shooting occurred when the deputy sheriff dropped his gun and the bullet entered the other's shoulder. The wounded man was taken to the hospital. He was not seriously hurt.

Address—Oklahoma, Oct. 2.—Voting in this county, the stronghold of supporters of Governor J. C. Walton, was proceeding quietly today.

"There has been no violence and there is no danger of any," said Sheriff E. T. London, who succeeded the late "Buck" Garrett to the job of law enforcement officer for the county.

"I have 200 deputies on duty in all parts of the county, including Healdton and Wilson, and there is no sign of any trouble."

Oklahoma City, Oct. 2.—Oklahoma county, strongly against Walton in the last election, showed signs of polling the largest vote in its history. In counties where the Governor's special agents and military authorities probed lawlessness, placed by the executive at the door of the Ku Klux Klan, balloting was heavy. Other sections reported little interest. Eighty per cent normal ballot for the entire state was forecast.

From the executive's mansion it was announced that the Governor would ignore the result of today's balloting.

"The pretended election is illegal and I will refuse to accept its result," the Governor said.

"I am willing to allow the issue to come before the people in a fair and

GIANT DIRIGIBLE ZR-1 REACHES ST. LOUIS THREE HOURS AHEAD OF SCHEDULE; NOW ENROUTE BACK TO LAKEHURST HANGAR

Will Pass Thru Central Part of this State About Midnight But Will Not Likely Be Visible.

SPEED IS 55 MILES

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 2.—The giant naval airship, ZR-1, after a visit of a few hours here, left at 10:10 a. m. today on the return trip to Lakehurst, N. J.

The big navy dirigible reached the St. Louis flying field, six miles from here, three hours ahead of schedule and for three hours the big silver envelope loafed through the air above the downtown district.

At 6:30 the ship returned to the field where an army detachment pulled it to its moorings. The ZR-1 was 24 hours in the air, having left Lakehurst at 6:30 yesterday. The ship maintained a speed throughout of more than 55 miles an hour.

The airship was to stay at the St. Louis field an hour for refueling, and to lead the 42 men of the crew. Due to the postponement of the national races to the last three days of this week, however, all board officials are making an attempt to have the ZR-1 stay over night.

It was 13 hours and 50 minutes after the big ship passed Clearfield until it landed in St. Louis and if it returns via Clearfield, which it is not likely to do as it was off its course when it visited here yesterday, it will pass over here about midnight tonight, having left St. Louis at 10 o'clock this morning. The ship was at least 50 miles out of the path laid out for it when it got here yesterday. It was supposed to follow the main line of the Pennsylvania from Altoona to Pittsburgh. Perhaps it was following the Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway, as everybody else will be doing shortly.

VISITOR FROM OREGON

Frank Malloy, of Portland, Oregon, is a guest at the home of his brother, J. M. Malloy on South Fourth street at present. This is Mr. Malloy's first visit east in nearly sixteen years and he is much impressed with Pennsylvania's advancement during this time.

John Walton and H. V. Neubauer, Phillipsburg; Allen Straw, Irona; Harry Levidinsky, Tyler; J. D. Mome Ebersburg; W. W. Hegarty, J. H. Kester and A. F. Snyder, Coalport, were Clearfield visitors yesterday.

Titusville Policeman Slays Business Man Who Paid Wife Court

Titusville, Pa., Oct. 2.—Policeman Charles Weatherbee was locked in jail here today, charged with the slaying of Edward Sterling, local business man.

Sterling was shot early this morning by Weatherbee as the latter's wife was seen entering Sterling's automobile, according to the police. Sterling died without regaining consciousness.

Several months ago Weatherbee applied for a divorce, having Sterling as co-respondent, but he later withdrew the suit and the couple had been living together since. About that time Weatherbee arrested Sterling on a charge of bootlegging but Sterling was never brought to trial.

After shooting Sterling, Weatherbee called his superior officer on the telephone and said: "Look me up. I just shot the man who wrecked my home."

BELIEVE GOVERNOR
PINCHOT HAS TOO
MANY IRONS IN FIRE

Harrisburg, Oct. 2.—Governor Pinchot is beginning to feel the pressure of too much executive responsibility and since the closing days of the legislature has the Governor been confronted with as many matters of moment to determine within a short space of time.

The Governor is trying to give his undivided attention to the coal problem to find ways and means of keeping down the price. He has also to devote time to the preparation of three addresses to be made this week in Reading, Philadelphia and Erie as part of his tour of the state. In addition to these responsibilities, there were conferences to be held with members of his official family, seeking solutions of difficulties arising under the complex reorganization program.

There are some here who feel the Governor at the present time has too many "irons in the fire" to do justice to any of them.

FELL FROM EARN ROOF

Frank Ruffner, of Clearfield street, received quite severe injuries in a fall from the roof of the barn on the rear of the lot of E. V. Brown. Mr. Ruffner had purchased the barn and was engaged last evening in tearing it down, when he slipped and fell from the roof to the ground. He was taken to his home where he is confined to his bed, the extent of his injuries not yet being determined.

Called "Mystery" House

Here is the summer home of the late Mrs. Charles Webb, over whose death an official investigation may take place. The home is at Fairfield, Conn. She had planned just before she became ill to live in it permanently.

Wilkes-Barre Financial Institution Declares A
100 Per Cent Dividend

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 2.—The Miner's Bank, largest financial institution in this section of the state, will pay a 100 per cent dividend, 50 per cent in cash and 50 per cent in stock, E. M. Kirby, president of the bank and vice president of F. W. Woolworth Company, announced today.

At the same time the capital stock will be increased from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000, partly by the dividend and partly by sale of stock. The large dividend will be paid out of the bank's surplus and will still leave $750,000 in the surplus, Kirby said.

BOW! WOW! WOW! YELLOW PURPS TO GATHER WEDNESDAY

Yellow Dogs and curs of varying degrees of malignancy will gather at the Clearfield opera house tomorrow evening for the purpose of holding one of the greatest howl or howl was known to Yellow Dogdom in this entire region.

At this gathering much business of importance will be transacted, not least important of which is the initiation into the mysteries of dogdom of a class of about one hundred mance, fleabitten ki y's.

Chief Cur Norris, generalissimo of all the Yellow Dogs in this neck of woods, will preside at the initiation exercises and will have every purp eating right out of his hand before hostilities end.

In addition to much other business of importance full and complete reports of the Labor Day dogmas at Curwensville will be given and plans for improving Irwin Park in the future outlined.

Yellow Dogs will be present from Altoona, Clearfield, Boardman, Carnation, Grampian, New Millport, Glen Ridge, O'Shanter and many other towns in this region, and a real time is assured all who attend.

COALPORT MAN KILLED

A coalminer near his home at Coalport at noon Sunday, Pa., was killed by a falling rock while working in the Altoona district where he was taken. Surgeons were making an examination of the injuries when he passed away.

The patient was taken to Altoona hospital and he was just removed from the ambulance and placed in the hospital when he breathed the last. He was unconscious when he arrived.

He suffered a fracture of the skull and possible internal injuries.

Conziana, who was aged 38 years, survived by a wife and two children, all of whom are in Italy. One child, residing in Pittsburgh, also survives. The body was removed to the Golden funeral home where it will be prepared for burial, prior to being sent to Coalport.

WILL CELEBRATE CO-LUMBUS DAY

Thomas Spingola, of Daisy street, received today from Punxsutawney will be attended a meeting of representatives of twenty lodges of the Order of Italy, from the counties of Clearfield, Jefferson and Elk counties, which was held at Punxsutawney for the purpose of arranging for the celebration of Columbus Day.

The celebration of Columbus Day this year will be held at Punxsutawney. It will begin on Thursday, October 11 and continue for three days. It was decided to hold next year's celebration in Clearfield.

St. Marys Firm Sues
For Return Of Liquors
Seized Two Years Ago

Pittsburgh, Oct. 2.—A writ was granted on United States Marshal James C. McGowan by Judge R. M. Gibson in United States district court this morning to return and show cause why liquors seized from the plant of the Standard Oil Manufacturing Company, St. Marys, Pa., should not be returned to the company.

The liquors were seized by the United States marshal without a search warrant and later turned over to the United States marshal and stored in the United States government building at Ridgway, Pa.

Later an indictment was returned against Peter J. Canine, owner of the plant, charging him with violating the national prohibition act, but the writ was not granted.

Robert Edgar, St. Marys, who has been arrested, is being held by several weeks in jail. He has been released today. He was charged by a brother, Jack Edgar, who will visit him at that place for a week.

LAKE TO THE SEA HIGHWAY TO GAIN BY PUBLICITY

Commercial Club Had Representatives at the Clarion Meeting: Very Interesting Meeting.

LIBRARY BOOSTED

The regular meeting of the Commercial Club was held in the Hotel Jordan last evening and was one of interest, being one of open discussion on many subjects.

The Progress cannot resist the temptation to assert here its belief that this little club of one hundred live wires is worth a half hundred Chambers of Commerce.

Here in one meeting we see that the club has a "heart" that is, it is represented at the Clarion meeting called to plan for the proposed advertising of the Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway.

With a view to looking after what is good for the whole people, particularly the young people of the city, the club assigns a member to the library project.

It maintained a service booth at the County Fair which was a boon to hundreds of people.

And, best of all, it has an assurance from the B. R. & P. that a big "wag" signal is to be erected at the Nichols street crossing.

This is just a sample of the interesting meetings held every two weeks and by their activity the Commercial Club truly merit the appellation of business men in Clearfield and every citizen as well.

The report of the representatives, Dr. J. Paul Frantz and L. A. McDowell, who went to the meeting at Clarion for the proper advertising of the Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway was interesting as they reported the plans under way for financing the advertising campaign to set forth the advantages of the highway and the numerous benefits from a scenic standpoint.

A vote of thanks was given to Pop Wilson and his family for their good work at the fair. Several instances were cited by the club where the road had been a distinct advantage and help to people attending the fair.

The proposed public library came in for a lengthy discussion and a petition was circulated among the members, asking council to levy a tax of one mill for the purpose of starting and maintaining a public library in the city. A. M. P. was the committee for the purpose of starting the library project and to report the club at these meetings.

Secretary Brodie reported that he had received word from the B. R. & P. Railway to the effect that a big "wag" signal, such as has been erected at Market street, would be shortly installed at the Nichols street crossing.

DuBois Rotary Club Pays Beautiful Tribute To Edwin Willis Gray

Solemnly, mournfully, out of respect for the memory of the late Edwin W. Gray, the regular meeting of the DuBois Rotary Club at the Hotel Logan Friday evening was devoted to a memorial for the deceased.

The simplest program, confined to an eulogy and the adoption of a suitable resolution, marked the meeting. Dr. S. M. Free delivered the eulogy, saying in part:

Mr. President and fellow members I am asked to do something which is well nigh impossible—to talk about our beloved member Edwin Willis Gray, or as we called him "Ed". He is as we say—dead, but this is not true.

Those we call dear are just away, have wandered to another land. Which we know not nor understand, And must be most wondrous fair. Because our loved ones linger there. But soon—oh, soon will come the day. When all of us will go away. To join the ones whom we call dead. Who've wandered onward just ahead. Then shall we know—then shall we see.

The glorious land of yet to be. Then we shall meet those gone before. And live with them forevermore.

The matter was placed before the Council by A. M. Liveright, Esq., representing the organizations and people behind the movement for a public library, while a delegation representing these organizations were also present to lend the force of their personal solicitation to the city action.

Mr. Liveright in presenting the matter stated that the law of July, 1917, under which they were proceeding, provided that where three per cent of the total number of votes cast at the last previous election petitioned the Borough Council for submission to the voters of the town the question of levying a tax to establish and maintain a free public library for the municipal council had no option but to pass an ordinance submitting such proposition to the voters at the coming November election.

The ordinance providing for the submission of the library proposition was then presented and read to council by Mr. Liveright and the same was unanimously adopted.

The County Commissioners will now be notified and the question of establishing and maintaining a library for the use of the residents of Clearfield, and the establishment of an annual tax at the rate of two mills for such purpose will be placed upon the ballot to be voted at the election on Tuesday, November 6th. A two mill tax on Clearfield town which has a population of approximately 13,000,000 will raise $6,000 annually.

Issues in Fine Shape

The Clearfield Free Public Library proposition, which the Borough Council has adopted, is now in the hands of the County Commissioners for their consideration.

In order that he might have assistance to carry on what is undoubtedly one of the most important undertakings ever attempted in Clearfield County, the service of Mr. A. F. Keim, who has been secured and Mr. Keim will act as assistant to Mr. Sterrett in the many branches of work undertaken by the Farm Bureau.

Mr. Keim is a graduate of State College and also has the benefit of a year post graduate course at the University of Minnesota. He has also done some Farm Bureau work in his home county. Mr. Keim is a native of Rowell, Somerset County, fully informed as to the needs of this section of Pennsylvania and every way equipped to assist Mr. Sterrett in the management of the Clearfield County Farm Bureau.

TO WEST POINT

Congressman William I. Swoope has been requested by the War Department to nominate a candidate for appointment to the United States Military Academy at West Point, and two alternates, in time to take the examination at the Academy on the first Tuesday in March, 1924.

The War Department has a number of openings for the appointment. Mr. Swoope has requested the United States Committee to hold an examination of the candidates at Clearfield, and they have agreed Saturday, October 20th, 1923, at nine o'clock in the morning at the Clearfield High School as the time and place for holding the examination. The examination will be on the same subject on which the successful candidates will be examined when they apply for admission to the Academy. All candidates must be actual residents of the District, not under 17 nor over 22 years on the date of admission to the Academy, not less than five feet four inches in height and of good moral character. Full particulars are given by writing to Mr. Swoope at the War Department, Washington, D. C., and a letter from him will admit the candidate to the examination.

The Borough Council found a lot of business to dispose of when they gathered at the Council chamber last evening. President Ross, presided and eight of the 12 members were present.

Will Vote On Public Library

The chief business before the Council was the proposition advanced by a number of the civic organizations of the town regarding the submission to the voters of the question of levying a two mill tax on all the property of the borough for the purpose of creating and maintaining a public library.

The matter was placed before the Council by A. M. Liveright, Esq., representing the organizations and people behind the movement for a public library, while a delegation representing these organizations were also present to lend the force of their personal solicitation to the city action.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

The "Pennsylvania News," a 4-page newspaper published in the interest of the Pennsylvania railroad, gives the following interesting historical sketch of the road:

The main route between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh in the years from 1833 to 1859 was over the old Portage railroad. The road was the means of overcoming the steep slopes of the Allegheny mountains, the most significant barrier of travel in those early days. There were five incline planes on each side of the mountains and horizontal planes on the intervals between the slopes. The cars were raised and lowered by means of hoists and transported over the planes by small engines. The rails were made at the Ebbon Vail iron works in Wales and imported to this country at a great expense. The ties were made of stone. The total cost of the old Portage Railroad was $1,634,357.00. In the year 1838 fifty thousand tons of freight and 20,000 passengers were transported over this system. Among the many notable passengers who traveled over this road was Charles Dickens, the famous English author. He refers to this trip in his "Memoirs of America." William Henry Harrison also traveled this historic railroad at the time of his inauguration, stopping at the famous old hostelry on the top of the mountains, where the Old Portage crosses the state highway.

The first train of cars from the east came into Altoona and ran through to Duncannon, crossing over the mountains by the old Portage Railroad on December 10, 1850. The Hollidaysburg branch was the main line at that time. In this connection, the Logan House was built in 1853 to offer over night accommodations to passengers at the base of the eastern slope of the mountains. It was named for Chief Logan, a noted Indian. Trains passing thru the city on their way over the mountains would stop over for 20 minutes, which afforded opportunity for the traveler to obtain something to eat at the hotel. It is said that when passenger trains came into the city, the head waiter would sound a large Chinese gong, summoning the passengers to their tables. A row of wash basins with roller towels hanging above, facing the entire length of the porch, constituted the bathing facilities.

The interesting announcement is made by the Bureau of Internal Revenue that "the United States Government wins the big end of the purse" from the Dempsey-Firpo fight. In addition to the $108,000 collected as a tax on the gate receipts, income taxes and surtaxes exacted on the principals, and of Rickard, the promoter, will give the government about $500,000 of the $1,200,000 paid by the fight fans.

The season for snake stories is about at an end and every self-respecting rattler has, no doubt ere this, crawled to the particular rock pile or cleft in the hillside which he calls home and burrowed for the winter, yet the following concerning "Rattlesnake Pete" Gruber ought to interest at least those lovers of the outdoors in this region who like to keep posted on the rattler and his ways and the method of the expert to counteract the poison when bitten by a rattler.

"Rattlesnake Pete" Gruber has been in the snake business for years, hence the name. When he was a boy at his Venango county home, gathering banded rattlers was one of his sports. He has been bitten more than a score of times and has spent many weeks in hospitals swathed in bandages and enduring agonizing pain. But he is still at it. In an interview some years since in regard to his inoculation by poisonous snakes he said:

"I never suck the wound. If there were any slight superficial wound in the mouth, like a scratch, the venom would get into the system and perhaps prove fatal. Directly after I've been bitten I cut the flesh around the puncture, and make another wound between the injured spot and the heart with a sharp knife which I always carry for use in case of such emergency. Into these two self-inflicted wounds I inject permanganate of potash, which has the effect of nullifying the poison."

Rattlesnakes are not found anywhere save in America. Along the Pennsylvania line in this state they abound. In northern New York they are unknown. The Adirondacks advertise, "not a poisonous snake or weed in the North Woods," which helps make it a popular location for campers.

Rattlesnakes are classed as the most dangerous of all reptiles on this continent. They belong to the viper family and come in twelve species and thirteen varieties. They do most of their traveling by night. They are extremely fastidious in matters of diet, preferring to starve rather than eat anything they do not like.

Curwensville's Own Column

From an article published in last day's North American, we glean intelligence of the sudden death, accident, of a former Curwensville girl, Miss Edwina Smith, a daughter of Edwin Smith, a former resident of the South Side. The young lady was in training for a profession in Philadelphia. On Saturday she hired a horse for a ride. In turning to the city she met an automobile at which the horse took fright and stopped suddenly, throwing the rider over its head. In alighting Miss Smith's neck was broken. Her age was about 22 years. The lady's family removed from Curwensville to McConnellsburg, Fulton county, some few years ago.

On Wednesday evening the Order of Red Men has arranged to install newly elected officers, the ceremony to take place in their wigwam on the third floor of the Fullerton block.

According to published statistics, Curwensville's school district will receive for the year 1923 a financial appropriation of $9,010.20 from the State. The February allotment was $4,312.35 and that of August $4,697.85. Pike township's appropriation from the same source for this year amounts in round numbers to $4,682.2. The first payment being the sum of $2,053.16 and the second reaching a trifle more, it being $2,465.16.

A week ago it was sensed that the State Highway lying between upper State street and the Roaring Run would open for traffic on Saturday last. This understanding was misconstrued somehow, however, for the road is still closed and it is very hard to predict what day the barriers will be removed.

Bartell Brothers yesterday closed a deal with J. E. Carpenter and wife of Pittsburgh, for a parcel or plot of ground lying between the Park House and Tanyard Run, the purchase price being $6,000. The new owners contemplate erecting thereon a large brick front, two story structure, work to be commenced as soon as the necessary arrangements can be completed.

E. R. Edwards has purchased the dwelling house and lot on North Filbert street formerly owned and occupied by Frank Hastings and family. Mr. Edwards expects to remove into his new possession within the next few days, as he is compelled to vacate the house he has occupied for several years on South Filbert street, it having been sold to other parties. Mr. Edwards paid the sum of $5,000, for the Hastings property.

Edwards Brothers have purchased and taken over the Joe Walker garage situated on South Side of State street and east of the Dr. Blair residence. The purchase included stock, material and good will of the concern.

The Misses Catherine, Margaret and Gussie Anderson of Patton, who spent more than a week with relatives over on High street, made an auto tour last week through the northern section of the state, accompanied by Andrew Anderson and wife. The party returned to Curwensville Saturday and on Sunday were taken to their Cambria county home.

HEARD ALONG THE BANKS OF THE MOSHANNON

Miss Rose Pontroy and Jennings Johnson, her popular young residents of Phillipsburg, were united in marriage at the Presbyterian Manse Saturday afternoon, Rev. Dr. J. T. Scott, performing the ceremony. After a brief honeymoon trip the couple will take up their residence in Phillipsburg.

LAWRENCE TOWNSHIP NOMINEES

The official count shows the following nominees for School Director and Supervisor in Lawrence township.

School Director—six years—Bessie Olson, R.; C. K. Thompson, D and P. Four year term—Ralph Guelich, R.; Raymond Ogden, D.; A. D. Goas, D. tie.

Supervisor—J. Shunkweiler, R.; Verne Rowles, D.; L. E. Spackman, Socialist; R. E. Ogden, Pro.

DIED IN CALIFORNIA

John O. Magwire, a native of Graham township, died at the Paradise Valley sanitarium, National City, California, on Monday, Sept. 10, 1923. The deceased was the son of James and Emily Wilhelm Magwire, old time Graham township citizens, but spent the greater part of his life in Oregon and California. He was ill but a few days before death ensued. He was buried in Mt. Hope cemetery, San Diego, Calif. He is survived by his widow, one brother and a sister, J. Irvin Magwire, of Morrisdale, and Mrs. John Williams, of South Fork, Pa. Mrs. Williams was with her brother when he died, being on a visit to his home when her brother was taken sick. A month previous to this time was the first time brother and sister had met in forty years.

How to tell for sure what oil your car needs

Important: If you drive—

a Hudson Super Six

The Hudson Super Six engine is of the six cylinder, vertical, L-head, water cooled type, of 3 1/2" bore by 5" stroke.

It employs a highly developed splash circulating lubricating system. An elevated oil pump, plunger type, draws oil from the reservoir in the crankcase and delivers it to the splash trough under No. 1 cylinder, in amounts exactly proportional to the load requirements and controlled by the throttle opening.

The oil overflows from No. 1 splash trough to No. 2, from No. 2 to No. 3, and so on, thus maintaining a level in all troughs. From the sixth or last splash trough, the oil returns to the reservoir and is recirculated. Lubrication of the entire working mechanism is dependent upon the splash created by dippers provided on the connecting rod caps, which are designed to distribute the oil from the splash troughs to all parts of the engine.

All Hudson models prior to 1923 were equipped with cast-iron pistons. The 1923 models are, however, fitted with aluminum pistons of the constant clearance type.

Piston material and design have an important bearing on lubrication. The temperature at which the piston operates affects the formation of carbon deposit and the tendency of the engine to knock. The amount of oil passing into the combustion chamber also affects the formation of carbon deposit and depends to a large extent upon the piston design.

With the cast-iron pistons used in the models prior to 1923, the piston temperatures are higher than with the aluminum pistons now used; therefore an exceptionally clean burning oil of the proper character should be used to minimize carbon deposit and reduce the tendency of the fuel to knock or "ping."

With the new aluminum pistons of the constant clearance type, the tendency toward carbon formation is reduced. The design is also such that passage of any excess of oil into the combustion chamber is prevented. Consequently a heavier lubricating oil can be employed without inducing detrimental carbon formation.

The knocking or "pinging" often experienced with an overheated or badly carbonized engine is caused by the way in which the present day fuels burn. High compression, high temperatures and carbon deposits tend to increase the knocking tendency. Consequently it is desirable to reduce carbon formation in so far as is possible and this, therefore, has an important bearing on the selection of the correct oil for an engine.

It is vitally important that the lubricating oil used in an engine be of such character that it will be circulated by the lubricating system under all conditions. Where an elevated plunger pump is employed and where the oil is distributed by splash, as in the Hudson car, the use in cold weather of an oil which flows freely at low temperatures is imperative.

All of the above factors and many others are considered before determining the correct oil for the Hudson car.

For models previous to 1923 we advise the use of Gargyle Mobil Oil Arctic the year round. For the 1923 models, Gargyle Mobil Oil "A" should be used in summer and Gargyle Mobil Oil Arctic in winter.

bon deposits accumulate.

Where natural circulation of the cooling water (thermo-siphon system) is employed as in the Maxwell design, it is desirable to use a warm weather oil which is suitable for fairly high operating temperatures. Such an oil will be thoroughly atomized and distributed by the Maxwell lubricating system under the conditions of summer operation.

To assure circulation of the lubricating oil in cold weather, the use of an oil which flows freely at low temperatures is necessary because of the elevated location of the oil pump with its long connection to the oil reservoir.

To meet correctly these and other important lubrication features of the Maxwell design, we recommend for the 1922 and 1923 models, the use of Gargyle Mobil Oil "A" in summer and Gargyle Mobil Oil Arctic in winter. For the 1921 and earlier models, Gargyle Mobil Oil Arctic should be used both summer and winter.

a Franklin

the engine speed.

Where air cooling is employed, the operating temperatures are normally somewhat higher than with water cooling. Consequently, a heavier bodied lubricant than commonly used with water cooling is preferable in order to provide adequate lubrication under all conditions of service.

In the Franklin design the possibilities for detrimental carbon deposit are minimized by the very effective oil control. The amount thrown to the cylinders is definitely regulated by the metered pump feed; the constant clearance design of the aluminum pistons permits close clearances and affords a very effective oil return through the slots below the piston rings.

In addition, the ping design is

FAIR RETAIL PRICE —30c A QUART

When the dealer sells a quart of Gargyle Mobil Oil for less than 30c, he does not make his fair, reasonable profit. Lower prices often accompany substitution of low quality oil for genuine Gargyle Mobil Oil. Prices are slightly higher in Canada, the Southwest, and the Far West.

an Overland

The Overland Four engine is of the vertical, L-head type, water-cooled by natural circulation, no pump being employed (thermo-siphon system). Unlike conventional designs, the clutch and transmission gears are lubricated by the engine oil except for some cars produced during 1921 when these parts were separately lubricated.

The piston material is cast-iron and each piston is fitted with three rings and six 3/16" oil return holes under the third ring. A moderate compression of 60 lbs. is carried.

Oil is distributed to all the working parts by a splash circulating system. The fly-wheel acts as a pump to carry oil up to a strainer pocket on the right side of the engine. After filtering, the oil flows through tubes in the crankcase to the main bearings under slight pressure and also to the splash troughs. From these, it is distributed to all other engine parts by the splash created by the connecting rod dippers.

The clutch, transmission gears and bearings, also the front universal joint, receive their oil supply from the spray thrown by the fly-wheel.

When the clutch and transmission gears are lubricated by the engine oil it is desirable, in order to provide the maximum of protection for the

ing conditions. Consequently, lubrication is assured at all temperatures.

In analyzing the lubricating requirements of the Franklin engine, these and many other characteristics of its design have been considered. To obtain the best results, we advise the use of Gargyle Mobil Oil "BB" at all times in the 1922 and 1923 models. For models prior to 1922 use Gargyle Mobil Oil "A" the year round.

gear teeth which often operate under heavy loads to use as much as a lubricating oil as can be employed without causing excessive "dragging" of the clutch.

The use of oil return holes in the piston under the third piston ring as employed in the Overland design, tends to prevent any excess oil reaching the combustion chambers and consequently reduces the tendency toward carbon formation. Should carbon accumulate, the moderate compression minimizes the tendency of the fuel to knock.

In cold weather, it is necessary, where distribution of the oil is by splash, to use an oil which will flow freely and readily create a fine spray at low temperatures. Otherwise, some of the working parts may not be lubricated. To minimize the clutch drag due to thickening of the oil on the contact surfaces it is desirable to use a more fluid oil in winter weather.

To meet these special features of Overland Four design, we advise for the engine the use in summer of Gargyle Mobil Oil "A" and in winter of Gargyle Mobil Oil Arctic. For the transmission of those 1921 models, not lubricated by the engine oil, use Gargyle Mobil Oil "C." The same grade should be used in the differential of all models.

a Maxwell

The late model Maxwell engines are designed with force feed lubricating systems in which oil is forced under pressure to the three main bearings. Holes drilled in the crankshaft carry the oil under pressure from the main bearings to the connecting rod bearings. The other moving parts are lubricated by the oil mist which is created when the oil is forced out through the close clearances at the ends of the connecting rod bearings.

The oil circulating pump is of the impeller type and is located at the camshaft level, drawing its supply through a pipe connecting with a strainer in the oil reservoir.

Aluminum pistons of the constant clearance type are employed. The skirt or bearing part of this type of piston is slotted on one side to provide for expansion under heat and therefore permits the use of close clearances. In addition, horizontal slots are cut through the piston below the lower ring to permit the free return of oil from the cylinder walls.

With the effective control of the oil supply which is secured by this oil return provision on the pistons, the possibility of carbon formation is minimized. In addition, the characteristics of aluminum as a piston material tend to prevent the fuel knock which often occurs when car-

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

It is far more beneficial to the engine if you add a small quantity of oil every day rather than larger quantities at less frequent intervals. Careful car operators, taxi-cab companies, and owners of motor truck fleets make it a practice to see that the oil is at the proper level every morning before the car goes out. With a 5-gallon can or 5- or 30-gallon drum of the correct grade of Gargyle Mobil Oil on hand you will always be ready to give your car this valuable attention.

The crankcase should be entirely drained of oil at least every 1000 miles in summer and every 500 miles in winter. When draining the oil, the removable screen (if your car has one) should also be cleaned. Draw off the old oil when the engine is warm, as the oil then flows more freely and tends to wash out a dry foreign matter. (Never flush the crankcase with kerosene.) Then refill with the correct grade of Gargyle Mobil Oil.

Oklahoma, heralded to the world as the center of disturbance and lawlessness, proved her mettle in the early hours of the voting today by going about that duty in an orderly and business like way. Naturally, before the polls close, there will be some disorder, but Pennsylvania can hardly point the finger of shame on that account. Pittsburgh, in the recent primary, was the scene of many fights and near riots. News stories tell of some of the polls not being open. This, too, happened in Pittsburgh. In one instance, an election was held out on the street corner, the election officials neglecting to provide election quarters.

The election today will settle nothing, but it will not be without its advantages. During the days leading up to the election and the days following the election attention will be focused on this phase of the difficulty rather than on the main contention.

Meanwhile time should temper the contending parties somewhat and bring them back to sanity and order.

WHY CHILDREN TELL WHAT WE CALL LIES

Lies told by children are often the deductions of infantile logic with no intent to deceive, and deserve the study of a psychologist rather than a reprimand or a whipping, according to Professor A. N. Farmer.

"Mendacity in children recently has been the subject of investigation in France," said Professor Farmer. "The result has been clearer understanding of a child's mode of reasoning. A French psychologist says the mind of the adult operates in five ways, classified as follows: Deductive reasoning, in which an accumulation of facts furnishes proof; cursory induction based on facts which justify a theory but do not constitute proof; belief founded upon association of ideas, and perceptive belief.

The logic of the child is concerned only with the last three processes. A little girl said she had met the Virgin Mary, who had given her a peach. It turned out that she had met a woman in white with a blue belt who reminded the child of an image of the Virgin she had seen. A little boy said that on a journey he had seen people and houses as big as his toes. The explanation was that from a high hill he had seen people and their homes in a valley diminished to toy size by distance."

ODD FELLOWS TO MEET AT JOHNSTOWN

Moxham Lodge, No. 1044, located on Coleman Avenue will act as host to the delegates and friends who will gather to attend the second quarterly session of the Allegheny Region Anniversary Association, I. O. O. F. to be held in the "Flood City" on Wednesday, October 3rd.

The meeting held at Bedford last July, much interest centered around this meeting, owing to the fact that delegates from Johnstown, Clearfield, Huntingdon and Somerset each sought to carry it to their respective towns, and it was only after an election that Johnstown was decided upon. To this season delegates in large numbers are expected from subordinate lodges, encampments, Rebekah Lodges and Chapters of the archaic Militant of Bedford, Blair, Cambria, Centre, Clearfield, Huntingdon, Juniata, Mifflin, Indiana, Somerset and Westmoreland counties. They will go to learn ways and means to bring the Odd Fellows of the region into closer contact with each other, to promote the spiritual, intellectual and social welfare of the lodges represented; to quicken the activity and increase the efficiency of the membership of the lodges in this section of the State, and to plan for the annual public celebration which will be held at Ebensburg next April.

Parlequin Tea Room

"For those who wish to lead the hygienic life, coffee and tea are not recommended, except for purely medicinal purposes. The only hygienic excuse for such drugs is in emergencies when work must be done and natural aids cannot for some reason be employed, but always the cost must be covered and the danger considered of forming a habit of denying the brain, nervous system or muscles the rest which is their due."
—From a "Keep Well" Leaflet on "Overstimulation," Issued by the Life Extension Institute.

Why not avoid "counting the cost?"

REST is better than a whipping, for tired nerves and muscles—better for today and infinitely better for tomorrow when the penalties of over-driving are likely to come due in headaches, nervousness, and increased difficulty of sleeping.

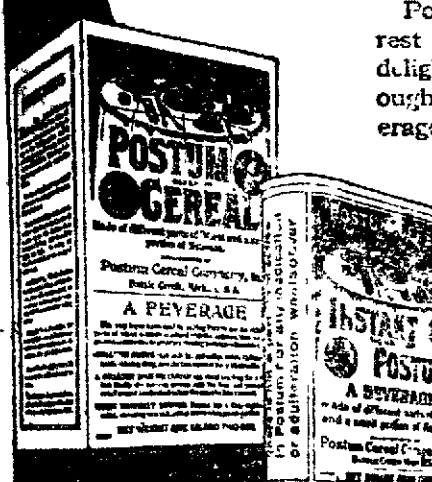

Postum is a good friend of rest and health. Postum is a delightful, comforting and thoroughly satisfying mealtime beverage, splendid in flavor and appeal—but containing no drug which can excite nerves or disturb digestion.

If you are whipping up nerves with coffee or tea, try a change to Postum. It will supply all the comfort and pleasure of a hot milky drink, and it will let you get the natural sleep and rest that puts strength and zest in a tired mind, nerves and muscles. You'll be counting profits instead of costs.

Your grocer sells Postum in the form of Instant Postum (in tin) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in package) for those who prefer the flavor brought out by boiling full of milk. The cost of either form is about one-half cent.

Progress Editorial For Women

ACT WELL YOUR PART
By FLORENCE DAVIES

The good actor is always wholly engrossed in giving a perfect performance of whatever part he has been assigned to portray. He gives his whole time and energy of body and mind to putting the character across, to creating just the right impression to stirring his audiences to vicarious participation in the play. He submerges himself in it, he loses his own personality to gain the personality of the role he presents, so much so that sometimes he even forgets there are other actors on the stage, each one presumably also striving to give the same perfection of performance.

Sometimes this has brought forth criticism; actors have been blamed for taking too much of the stage, or for taking their own parts too seriously that they have forgotten the right of the other members of the cast to have their parts played. But usually criticism comes from the minor actors, the really great are usually "too busy" with their own effort to discuss the way in which others handle theirs.

In real life, the girl who follows the good actor? How often we forget to watch our own parts and leave the portrayal of the other woman's where it belongs—in her hands. Don't we sometimes complain that the children are lacking in respect, that husband does not act the vivid lover of the tale or story he is told? Perhaps the children haven't the stimulus of a great actor to lead them on and draw them out. In the world, maybe you haven't put over your mother role in the right way to force respect, loyalty and confidence. Have you been lukewarm in your character, halting, stumbling and amateurish in your lines? How, then, expect the others in the family cast to play up to a heroine who can't hold the stage?

How do you know that Hero? Husband isn't playing his part as it was written? Because you've been watching his portrayal critically, instead of wholeheartedly and whole-souled. Watching yourself into your own. Watching him your own acting becomes a lackadaisical, wishy-washy performance, and the star has never the other members of the cast to play his parts to play up to a heroine who can't hold the stage?

SUITS ENLARGED

Among the recent suits entered in Prothonotary Ralston's office is one by Dulton, Forsyth & Bell, representing the Miller, Franklin, Bassett Co., Co New York City, who are suing the Beehive Coal Company for $544.47, alleged to be due to the plaintiff for auditing the books of the Coal Company.

Attorney Louis T. Bone, of DuBois, on behalf of John E. Powell, is suing the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. for damages not exceeding $5,000. No statement of claim was filed with the suit and the nature of same is not stated.

W. B. Adams and J. C. Long, Esqs. of Punxsutawney, on behalf of Alice L. Smith, have entered suit against the City of DuBois, in which damages are asked not to exceed $2500.

Suit was entered in Prothonotary Ralston's Office today by Dulton, Forsyth & Bell, representing Derrick Brothers, local automobile dealers, and against the Clearfield Park Association, by which Derrick Brothers seek to recover $10,321.95 from the Park Association.

The statement filed by the plaintiff alleges that on August 29th last they entered into an oral agreement with A. E. Leitzinger, one of the Park Directors whereby Derrick Brothers were to build a shed in which to make their automobile exhibit, it being stipulated that in addition to erecting their own shed the automobile dealers should also be permitted to pay the same fee for exhibiting their automobiles that was charged other exhibitors. In accordance with the Park Directors erected their shed at the juncture of the main driveway and the road past the stalls and leading to the McBride street entrance.

On Sept. 17th Derrick Brothers were notified that at a meeting of the Board of Directors it was decided that their arrangement could not be carried out and the Derrick Brothers would have to come down and when the Park Association and Derrick Brothers were notified when they attempted to rebuild it.

The statement further recites that the fair attracted 65,000 visitors and that by reason of the facts set forth above plaintiffs were hindered and prevented from making the exhibit contemplated by them and as a result thereof lost many prospective customers and prestige; were hindered from making sales and contracts for sales for a total of $10,321.95, being damaged to the extent of $10,000. The cost of erecting the shed was $381.05.

legal election, where an opportunity is had, as required by law, to present the issue to the voters.

Reports received here were that in all but five of the 75 counties the poll opened on schedule time.

W. C. McAllister, secretary of the state election board, sent notice to the election officials in these counties that they would be arrested and prosecuted on charges of unlawfully interfering with an election.

"You or any other man who interferes with this election will be sent to the penitentiary," McAllister wired Sheriff Conn in Bryan county, where the polls were padlocked. "Neither the Governor nor any other man can stop the election."

As the voting progressed, additional deputies were being sworn in. Shortly before 8:00 a. m. Sheriff Commissioner Cavnar announced 500 men were patrolling the voting places in Oklahoma City, center of the Governor's military rule.

All of the deputies were heavily armed despite Governor Walton's orders, issued to military headquarters, that they disarm under threat of arrest by guardsmen.

Add Blunders of Authors. Edith Wharton in one of her earlier novels describes a man as walking on "stony beach" "his arms and legs thrust to his sides." But a worse blunder occurs in her latest book, "The Age of Innocence," where she has two of her characters, Archer and May, married with the words of the funeral service—Easton Transcript.

You don't care how good a store is, if it isn't good for you; your money ought to benefit you more than the store.

Of course every clothing store wants your trade; we do. And we figure that the best way to get it is to make this a store FOR YOU. If we do that and you know it, we'll have business enough.

Our ideas in making a store that serves its customers' interests first is this:

1. Good quality in merchandise is necessary.
2. Prices as low as good quality allows; there's a bigger total profit in many sales at a small margin than in a few sales at a large margin.
3. Guarantee the customer's satisfaction.

These are some of the ideas we have to make this "The best clothing store for you"

Forest Exhaustion a Danger.
The Department of Agriculture says that the crisis of timber depletion is the exhaustion, or partial exhaustion, of the forests that are most available to the bulk of the population of the country. One-half of the lumber remaining in continental United States is in three states, bordering on the Pacific ocean.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Relieved of Nervousness and Other Distressing Ailments by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound four years ago, and am taking it now for the Change of Life and other troubles and I receive great benefit from it. I am willing to let you use my letter as a testimonial because it's the truth. I found your booklet in my letter-box and read it carefully, and that is how I came to take the Vegetable Compound myself. It has given me quiet nerves so that I sleep all night, and a better appetite. I have recommended it already to all my friends and relatives."—Mrs. ENGLEMAN, 2032 Palmetto St., Ridgewood, Brooklyn, N. Y.

For the woman suffering from nervousness, headache, hysteria, "the blues," Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will be found a splendid medicine. For the woman of middle age who is passing through the trials of that period, it can be depended upon to relieve the troubles common at that time.

Remember, the Vegetable Compound has a record of nearly fifty years of service and thousands of women praise its merit, as does Mrs. Englemann.

You would give it a fair trial now.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Stewart left yesterday for Pittsburgh, where Dr. Stewart will attend the Medical Association meetings.

Mrs. Thomas March and Mrs. Tibbets returned to their homes in Greensburg yesterday. Mrs. F. G. Betts driving them as far as Tyrone.

Mrs. W. B. Henderson and daughter Catharine of Philipsburg shopped in Clearfield yesterday.

Mrs. Robert D. Reed left today for a few days' visit with her parents in Clarion.

Mr. and Mrs. Hursh Johnson and children of Summitville, O., spent last Friday in Clearfield. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and daughter going on to Harrisburg, Philadelphia and New York on business.

Clear Etzweiler of Leport, Ind., is visiting relatives in Clearfield for a week.

The Other Roosevelt

ROOSEVELT the shy, awkward boy, held back by ill health and above all, by poor eyesight—how unfamiliar that is!

Yet, in his writings, he tells us that as a boy, quite unknown to himself, he was under a fearful disadvantage—he was near-sighted. Properly fitted glasses opened up a new world for him.

Like Roosevelt, "quite unknown to yourself," YOU may need glasses. Only an examination will tell you!

New Woolens

Of course you are planning a coat frock, they are so very stylish now. What better material could you choose than one of the new reps, Poiret twills, kashas, or one of the novel jacquard Woolens? There are new pile fabrics, too, striking imported sports cloths for suits and skirts and many others.

Trimmings

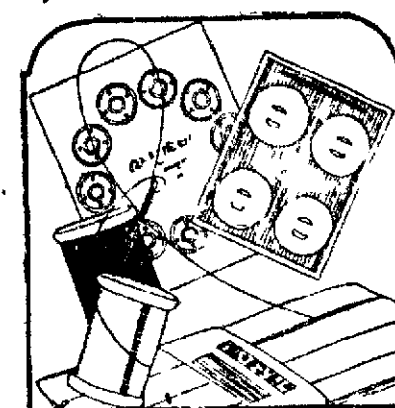

You will want to see the new Indo-Chinese Trimmings so fashionable now. New beaded bandings, new braids with metal touches, new ornaments and the beautiful new laces for evening gowns.

You will find it extremely economical to shop here during this Week.

Sewing WEEK

This is Home Sewing Week at Leonardson's

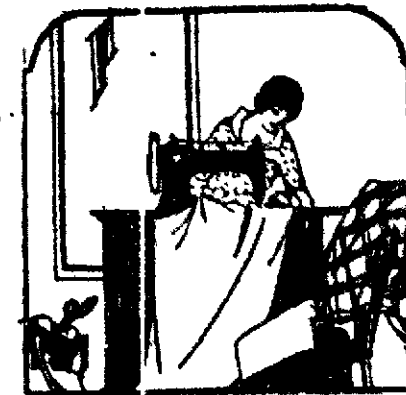

Have you ever tried making your own clothes? If not, you can't possibly know how fascinating it is to select your own materials, a pattern and findings and make things for yourself and the children. Besides, think how much you save in doing this. Here is one of the finest selections of Sewing Aids anyone could possibly wish for, for this is Home Sewing Week here in the Store.

Patterns

We carry LADIES' HOME JOURNAL PATTERNS. Our customers who have used them tell us that they are the best patterns they can find—that they are so easily understood and so economical, and that their styles are not to be duplicated anywhere. Priced from New Fall Quarterly now ready, only if purchased with a Pattern.
